Gate project to begin Saturday

Tech. Sgt. Jose Ruiz
Public Affairs

RED HORSE engineering teams from the Ohio and Pennsylvania Air National Guard are scheduled to begin a redevelopment project on Air Base 4's Beira Mar Gate Saturday.

The project, scheduled to take approximately three months and cost about $295,000, includes the construction of a traffic circle on Rua Velha, the public road between Beira Mar Housing and the base, a new guard shack and the realignment of Rua America, the road adjacent to the Oceanview Island Grill.

This project is the result of a combined planning and coordination effort between Air Base 4, U.S. Forces Azores and City of Praia officials, said 1st Lt. Pat Miller, 65th Civil Engineering Squadron chief of plans and programs.

"We're putting in the traffic circle to improve the traffic flow along the public road accessing the gate," Miller added. "More importantly, it will improve both traffic and pedestrian safety."

"The new guard shack will be relocated to the center of the gate," said Miller, "It will allow for easier processing of motorists using the gate and improve force protection for the base and its personnel."

Miller added that Rua America will be realigned to make room for a second entrance lane to the gate, helping to alleviate traffic congestion.

The Beira Mar Gate will be closed for the duration of the project, and traffic updates will be posted on the Commander's Access Channel (channel 36), Miller added.

News briefs

Circus comes to Angra

The Circus Cardinalli will perform in the parking lot adjacent to the Angra bullring through Sunday. Today's performance will begin at 9:45 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday's performances will begin at 4:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the door two hours before show start.

Lajes to host Waterfest

Lajes will host the 2001 Waterfest in the waters of Praia Beach from 10 a.m.-5p.m. June 23.

The event will include boat rides and rentals, skiing, kneeboarding, tubing and banana sled rides.

Individual events include live performances, a youth three-legged race, a balloon throwing competition and a homemade boat regatta.

Units and individuals are encouraged to construct organizational boats and compete in the regatta for awards.

A shuttle bus will depart from the library and the beach every half hour.

For more information, or to sign up, call Victor Silva at 24140.

No phone tapping at Lajes

Recent media allegation contradictory to Air Force communications policy

Capt. Kristen Skopeck
Chief, Public Affairs

As happens in small towns across the United States and on small islands in the Atlantic, rumors develop and spread like wild-fire.

My office has fielded media queries in the past for some very strange rumors. We were asked to comment about Americans smuggling babies out of Portugal, Americans selling the impotency drug, Viagra, to local citizens because it is easier for us to get in the states than here and about UFOs landing near the Cabrito tank.

Recently, a rumor about the base phones being tapped appeared in a radio and print story on this island and even trickled to media on the mainland. Because people often believe what they read, I wanted to find out what was going on.

In a quest to find the facts about phone tapping here at Lajes, the 65th Communications Squadron Commander, Lt. Col. Mike Lewis, and other telephone operations people provided information on the stringent Department of Defense and Air Force regulations in place regarding tapping telephones.

"Air Force Instruction 33-111, Telephone Systems Management, states we are not allowed to monitor telephone conversations to determine whether the communication is for official purposes, or monitor for information systems management purposes or use pen registers or similar equipment unless a criminal investigation is underway," said Lewis. "The reality is we can not legally do arbitrary phone tapping on the base, and we don't do it."

The regulation further states phones may only be monitored if there is a suspicion the information is essential to accomplishing assigned missions, including information about activities threatening Department of Defense personnel and installations — including vessels, aircraft, communications equipment and supplies.

"Concerning monitoring phones for criminal investigations, it requires approval and coordination of several agencies, to include the security forces, local law enforcement and Portuguese Telecom," said Capt. Lionel Earl, Mission Systems Flight commander. "We neither have the time nor interest to arbitrarily listen to people's conversations."

The captain said the only review done at Lajes is when unit Telephone Control Officers, or TCOs, check the monthly unit phone bills for abuse of government telephones.

At Lajes, it is the TCO's responsibility to review bills, identify and report excessive personal calling habits that generate large charges to a unit and report the behavior under the Fraud, Waste and Abuse program, he said.

To demonstrate even this review is not excessive, Public Affairs was given figures for the amount of money spent, on average, to calls placed in the 295 prefix. The base spends nearly $3,000 each month on these calls.

Lt. Col. Lewis said employees might have misinterpreted what TCOs do each month as a form of monitoring.

"They inspect monthly phone bills and examine what kind of calls are placed and for how long," he said. "This is just like people probably do on their personal phone bills. We aren't worried about occasional calls that folks make to spouses in base housing or even to off-base residences."

He said real problems occur when there is hardcore telephone abuse, like hour-long conversations to a local residence or several calls to a commercial residence in the states during a short period.

As in most cases, rumors contain a small amount of fact.

Thus, the phone usage at Lajes may be monitored for fraud, waste and abuse purposes, but phones are not tapped for the purpose of listening to people's conversations.

It is only my opinion, but I believe both Portugal and the United States have impressive processes in place to protect our privacy and rights and to ensure fair and equitable treatment of everyone. And, our militaries exist to protect these rights, not to trample on them.

"Air Force Instruction 33-111, Telephone Systems Management, states we are not allowed to monitor telephone conversations to determine whether the communication is for official purposes, or monitor for information systems management purposes or use pen registers or similar equipment unless a criminal investigation is underway,"

75 Lajes NCOs selected for promotion

Unit commanders bore good news for 75 Team Lajes members, as they notified them of their selection by the Air Force for promotion to the ranks of technical and master sergeant.

The Air Force selected 22 of 47 eligible Lajes technical sergeants for promotion to master sergeant and 53 of 161 eligible Lajes staff sergeants for promotion to technical sergeant. This year's Lajes selection rates were 46.81 percent to master sergeant and 32.92 percent to technical sergeant. According to Staff Sgt. Dawn Kost, 65th Mission Support Squadron NCOIC of career enhancements, all Lajes promotion statistics are tentative pending confirmation through the Personal Concepts III Data System.

The following Lajes technical sergeants were selected for promotion to master sergeant: Kimberly Lincoln, Jose Ruiz, 65th Air Base Wing; Barry Pohlman, 729th Air Mobility Squadron; Jerry Burns, Marwin Taladelcid, 65th Civil Engineering Squadron; Charles Heim, 65th Contracting Squadron; Rodney Amnotte, John Armentrout, Rogerio Garcia Jr., Gerald Lundquist, Scott Sippel, David Banks, 65th Communications Squadron; Winston Robotham, 65th Medical Support Squadron; Lawrence Holley, Eileen Rodriguez, 65th Operations Support Squadron; James Douglass, 65th Security Forces Squadron; Gary Hillman, 65th Support Group; Andrew McKavanagh, Walter Seth, Jay Gilliss, 65th Supply Squadron; James Hollingsworth, 65th Services Squadron and Charles Mariuzza, 65th Transportation Squadron.

The following Lajes staff sergeants were selected for promotion to technical sergeant: Merlin Choice, Beverly Justice, Patrick McCague, 65th ABW; Dannie Bowen Jr., Robert Briney, William Carsten, John Hroncich, Todd Kneisley, James Nasto, Jerry Rabon, Tonya Scott, Denise Wahinekapu-Gorman, 729th AMS; Steven Clark, John Gorman, Alan Perry, Scott Williams, 65th CES; Joseph Castillo, 65th Comptroller Flight; April Carpenter, Roger Childs, Kent Findlay, Carol Miller, Daniel Pewther, Robert Stein, John Tidwell, Christopher Walker, 65th CS; Milagros Vicens, 65th Logistics Group; Charles Boots, 65th Medical Operations Squadron; Randall Hicks, 65th MDSS; Anthony Hardin, Dawn Kost, 65th Mission Support Squadron; Jeremy Entwistle,

Richard Howell, Robert Ingram, James Keaton Jr., Leonard LaForest, John Marshall, Bambi Mcpherson-Breur, Ronald Meadows, David Rosario Jr., Todd Winters, 65th OSS; Robert Hoover, Paul Sillars, 65th SFS; Scott Daughtry, Marc Feliz, Michael Horblit, Timothy Kammeraad, Jason Owens, Sheldon Scheehle, Nathan Zuniga, 65th SUPS; Rosa Aumack, Robert Campbell, David Ledger and Donald Cumins Jr., 65th TRANS.

Service-wide, the Air Force selected 7,031 of 18,038 eligible technical sergeants for promotion to master sergeant and 12,051 of 36,095 eligible staff sergeants for promotion to technical sergeant. This represents an overall 38.98 percent selection rate for the 01E7 cycle and 33.39 percent selection rate for the 01E6 cycle. The Air Force master sergeant selection percentage stayed virtually tied with last year's percentage of 39.10, while this year's technical sergeant rate surged nearly six points beyond last year's already record showing of 27.64 percent.

Across Air Combat Command, the Air Force selected 1,896 of 5,087 eligible technical sergeants for promotion to master sergeant and 3,312 of 10,294 eligible staff sergeants for promotion to technical sergeant. This year's ACC promotion rates for the two ranks were slightly lower than the service-wide rates, with a 37.27 selection percentage for master sergeant and a 31.86 selection percentage for technical sergeant.

"The increased promotion rates seen in the last few years are partly a result of the return to stable force structure and end-strength levels following years of draw-down," said officials at the Air Force Personnel Center. "The primary reason for increased promotion rates is our transition to a higher percentage of 'Top Five' NCOs, previously at 48.5 percent of the enlisted force, now headed toward 56 percent over the next few years.

People who tested are expected to receive their score notices in mid-June, allowing them to see just how they stacked up against their counterparts. These score notices allow members to know how their Promotion Fitness Examination and Specialty Knowledge Test scores rank against those they're directly competing against for promotion within their Air Force Specialty Code.

The average selectee scores were 348.20 for the master sergeant test cycle and 331.99 points for the technical sergeant test cycle.

The average master sergeant selectee has 3.49 years time in grade and 16.71 years in service.

The average technical sergeant has 5.83 years time in grade and 13.53 years in service. Selectees will be promoted to their new ranks from August through July 2002.

The complete list of selectees is available on the Air Force Personnel Center's home page at <http://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil>. (courtesy of the Air Force Personnel Center and the 65th Mission Support Squadron)

Library wins ACC services award

Eduardo Lima
Public Affairs

The Lajes Base Library was recently lauded with the Air Combat Command's Air Force Services Program Award in the library category, for its outstanding programs provided to the Lajes community.

The only non-contract library in ACC competed with 16 other bases, won the award for the first time and will compete against other libraries worldwide for the award at the Air Force level.

Reference librarian John Bedell helps Tech. Sgt. Samuel Pickering, 729th AMS, find a book.

"The library offers a variety of children's programs throughout the year and supports cultural events with special book and poster displays," said Jeanette Hoel, the base librarian.

"Last year, our children's programming included story hours," Hoel said. "We also coordinated with the Child Development Center so their children could come to the library every Wednesday morning for story time."

The library's Teen Murder Mystery Night, during which teens participated as detectives to solve a librarian murder case, is credited with increasing library usage among the Lajes teenagers. They further promoted reading among youngsters with an eight-week summer reading program, that included 132 participants.

The library is also a go-to agency for base organizations seeking to raise awareness about issues of concern for the Lajes community. The organization assisted the Fire Department during Fire Prevention Week, the 65th Security Forces Squadron during National Crime Prevention Month, the 65th Civil Engineering Squadron during Earth Week and the 65th Medical Group during the Breast Cancer Awareness and National Children's Dental Months.

The library's many resources include a 15-station computer lab with access to Internet, which also supports three on-base colleges: the University of Oklahoma, the University of Maryland and the City Colleges of Chicago.

"They use our computer lab to hold English classes, and that's unique because a lot of bases have their own education classrooms and don't hold classes in the library," Hoel said.

In partnership with the base colleges, the library supports more than 990 students pursuing educational goals, according to Hoel. A reference librarian offers the students professional assistance with CD-ROM and on-line reference databases. Students are also offered orientation tours of the facility and its services.

The library has a staff of five and is particularly popular among volunteers, who logged 825 volunteer hours during Fiscal Year 2000. Hoel said the staff and volunteers maintain a seven-day, 60-hours-per-week operation, which exceeds Air Force goals by 10 percent.

Also in Fiscal Year 2000, the ACC Librarian recognized the library staff's quality approach to customer service with benchmark awards for mission, education and quality-of-life support.

Last year, the library was continuously rated first place by the Lajes Community in both customer service and customer satisfaction.

The library is open from 10 a.m. - 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. on Fridays, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays, and 4 - 9 p.m. on Mondays.

Gate Continued from Page 1

In addition, Rua Velha will be restricted to one-lane travel during this period, Miller said, adding that the lane closest to Beira Mar Housing and the housing gate across from the Beira Mar Gate will both be closed through late July to make way for construction equipment.

Residents affected by the housing gate closure will use their alternate gate to enter and exit the housing area.

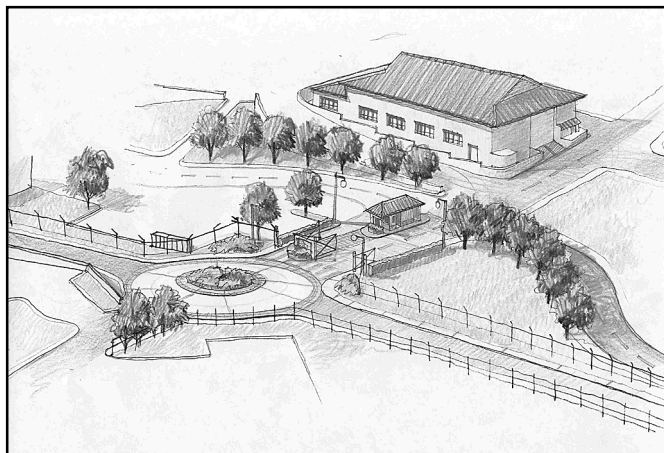

Following the completion of the first lane on Rua Velha, the lane closest to Air Base 4 will be closed to traffic.

On base traffic access to Beira Mar Gate will also be closed beyond the entrances to the library, Oceanview Island Grill and Building T-260.

Miller asked residents to exercise caution in the vicinity of the project area.

"Stay vigilant for heavy equipment, workers and each other," he said, adding that road detour and gate closure advisories will be posted throughout the project's duration.

The project will enable the two RED HORSE teams to hone their wartime skills while fulfilling training requirements. The teams will deploy personnel in two-week rotations and will, time permitting, take on other projects, to include the demolition of two buildings and the construction of a compressed gas storage facility.

Lajes High School graduates 23 seniors

Tech. Sgt. Jose Ruiz
Public Affairs

Twenty-three Lajes High School seniors reached personal milestones Saturday as they walked across the Angranese Theater stage to accept their high school diplomas during the school's 2001 commencement ceremony.

Doctor Jerry Ashby, the school's principal, presented diplomas to the students during the ceremony, which began at 3:30 p.m. The ceremony marked the students' successful completion of 22 academic units in 10 subject areas and elective courses.

A recognition breakfast was held June 2 to recognize student achievements. Ian Birch, class salutatorian, was recognized with the Principal's Leadership Award for his overall involvement in the school. Five students were also recognized with the Presidential Academic Excellence Award.

This year, 11 private organizations announced 51 scholarships, totaling more than $13,000 for students furthering their education. Andrea Green, class valedictorian, received a full-tuition, four-year scholarship under the Air Force's Reserve Officer Training Corps Commissioning Program. In addition, the Air Force Aid Society announced 12 educational grants valued at $6,000 each.

"This was a larger class than usual," said David Gronke, the school's counselor and psychology teacher. "Typically, we have eight to 15 students. But this was a relatively close-knit group who got to know each other well. I suspect they'll probably maintain some contact with each other over the next several years."

"I feel honored to be graduating with the people here," said Ryan Adee of his classmates. "It has been a fun year overall."

Adee, who will attend the electrical engineering curriculum at Wesleyan University in Oklahoma, credited the supportive nature of the school's staff with making the year "enjoyable."

Jennifer Crow, one of three triplets in the class, expressed concern about the transition to college life. "I'm kind of glad to leave high school," she said. "But college is a big step, and it's one step closer to being in the real world."

Crow plans to attend Arkansas State University with her sister, Amy. Courtney, the other triplet, plans to return with her parents to Barksdale Air Force Base, La.

Sam Demelo, a DODDS student for his entire life, said he plans to take his college classes at Lajes, adding that he is in no hurry to return to the United States.

"I'm going to stay here for a year, take some nighttime courses and work during the day," he said. "Having lived overseas my entire life, I'm just not ready for the states. I have no clue what it's like."

Frank Macy, this year's commencement speaker, can empathize with Demelo. Raised on Terceira for most of his young life, Macy graduated from Lajes High School in 1982.

A graduate of the University of Tennessee, Macy has worked with the Air Force's Space Program and NASA's Space Shuttle Program. He currently works as a principal aviation software engineer for Boeing, a large defense contractor. Macy's mother, Dorothy Macy, is a teacher at Lajes Elementary School.

During a tour of the high school June 8, Macy spoke of his experiences as a senior here.

"It wasn't a very positive environment," he recalled. "We had high teenage pregnancy and alcoholism problems, because a lot of the parents weren't taking responsibility for their kids. Less than half of my graduating class had aspirations of going on to college."

"We also had no internet or satellite television back then," he added, "And the school offered little exposure to the Portuguese language and culture. So you felt isolated"

Macy said he noted many positive changes during his tour of the school, mostly in the attitude of the kids. "It's like night and day," he said. "I saw more smiles here today than I think I saw my entire senior year."

He commended parents and the school's hard-working staff for improving conditions for the students.

Macy warned students that success is not instant and can only be achieved with patience, focus, perseverance and hard work.

"There are a lot of people capable of doing a lot of things okay," he said. "But to be considered an expert in your field and be recognized above the crowd often requires an intense ability to focus in on a particular area to great depths and for long periods of time."

Many scientists spend their entire adult careers working on one experiment, only to fly in space one time," he added. "Imagine getting your doctorates in 1970, then waiting 25 years to do the one thing you have worked for your entire life just once."

"Find a niche in a field you think is fun," he concluded, "and be prepared to work your rear-end off for a long time to achieve success in it."

Bryant Taylor shakes hands with Doctor Jerry Ashby, Lajes High School principal after receiving his diploma during the graduation ceremony.

Lajes Captain wins racquetball title

Capt. Jason Campbell, 729th Air Mobility Squadron, took first place at the US Armed Forces Racquetball Championships held 5-6 May at Sembach Air Base, Germany.

Campbell achieved the victory during the double-elimination championship tournament.

Capt. John Campbell and Tech. Sgt. Ian Chin play a match against each other at the Chase Fitness Center court June 8 ment with consecutive wins against the best Department of Defense players in the sport.

During the first-round match against a top-seeded player, Campbell took an easy 15-3, 15-7 victory. The second round match went to a tiebreaker, but Campbell rallied and shut out the opposition 11-0.

Campbell's third round match, a 15-5, 15-9 win, sent his opponent, Richard Shepard, to the losers bracket. Shepard, however, fought his way through a tie-breaking match in the losers bracket to face Campbell once again in the finals.

In the first game of the finals, Shepard came out shooting and won 15-11, but Campbell answered with a 15-7 victory in the second game, sending the match to a decisive tiebreaker. With the title on the line, both players duelled hard for a victory. But Campbell crushed Shepard's aspirations to the title with an 11-8 win to claim the title.

Joined by his doubles partner, Tech. Sgt. Ian Chin, also from the 729th AMS, Campbell also took third place in the tournament's doubles category. The Americans in Europe Racquetball Association has invited both players to return to Europe to play in future tournaments.
